

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, SUNDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 4, 1904.

SOCIETY.

The week has been one of the pleasantest society has passed for ever so long and the novelty was certainly appreciated after the long period of social stagnation. Dancing, cards and small home events made up the programme of the six days, with something in the amusement line every night with either concerts or dramatic events of importance. From now on the calendar will be fairly well filled with light doings among the fashionable set, and the outlook for the holidays very bright.

The first dance of the University club Tuesday night was a brilliant affair. Many present it was the first chance they had enjoyed in trying the floor, and the verdict was to the effect that it is the best floor for dancing in the city. The club is an ideal place for an event of the kind, and the college men are great entertainers. The programme mapped out by the social committee, tails of which were printed Tuesday, one that will prove attractive to all members, and the hop which has been remembered and provided for. The winter, therefore, will be quite gay at the home of the graduates.

Since the early days of Fort Douglas the officers and ladies of that institution have been frequent entertainers. The informal hops have for many seasons been distinct features of each winter. Those now stationed at the post, however, are giving more attention to the series for the winter than before. The Governor, and the hop which was quite the pleasantest in the memory of those who have been popular attendants at local army events. The decorations of a patriotic and warlike character, were artistic and very pretty, while the music by the orchestra was excellent, so pronounced, in fact, that every number was enthusiastically received. The refreshments, served buffet style in one room of the room, were in keeping with the rest of the appointments, and added to the success of the evening. The attendance from the city was larger than ever and all the officers seemed to be present, their full dress uniforms adding to the brilliancy of the scene.

Governor Heber M. Wells and staff on Wednesday made the annual official call upon Col. Lockwood and his command at Fort Douglas, and the scene was one of great interest. The command, in full dress, was marched to the rear of the reservation and there met the staff, all of whom were in full dress uniform. The Governor was escorted to the parade ground, where a formal review took place and he was accorded regular military honors. After the review the State officials were informally entertained by Col. Lockwood and staff.

The bachelor officers at Fort Douglas will shortly be handsomely housed, as a new bachelor, or club building, is under construction. It is most complete and nothing has been omitted that will contribute to the comfort of the officers who will be assigned to those quarters. The suites will be arranged to give all convenience, while the downstairs portion will be equipped with a reading room and the usual club appointments. The bachelor officers expect to ask their friends to a housewarming when they become settled in their new home.

The dancers in society, from the oldest to the youngest, had an opportunity entering into the spirit of this form amusement during the week. Besides the University club dance there were one of the regular Wednesday night soirees at Christensen's. The post hop, the High School Alumni dance, and the University women's ball Friday evening, while the wet toes of the number of 200 had a matinee yesterday at Christensen's, and what a pretty sight it was to be sure to see the white, pink, blue, black, red and her colored little feet scampering on the polished floor.

In card parties the one given by Mrs. W. Armstrong on Thursday and the Friday afternoon event at the Knutsford Hotel by Miss Fitzpatrick, were bright and successful. The surprise luncheon to Mrs. Kearns by her mother, Mrs. Wilson, the dinner at the Knutsford, at which Dr. and Mrs. McHenry were host and hostess, were delightful affairs in every way.

The new Bohemian club has a home which is nicely furnished, and with a small start the club ought to grow to a large and vigorous local institution. The growth of club life in Salt Lake presents a very interesting study, and it was when the Alta was the only club of the kind, and the old Bohemian House was kept up for dancing at the Walker Opera house in winter and at Garfield in summer. Now, however, there are four clubs with their own buildings and all the comforts, and with others with a more limited number of attractions and any number of very successful literary and miscellaneous societies.

The golfers refuse to believe that the country club has ended its season, as attendance each day is very good and the men and women continue to play the diminutive ball over hill and dale.

The society will be well represented at the first concert by the symphony orchestra tomorrow night. The stalls are all taken and the audience will be a brilliant one.

Possible Inaugural Ball.

Prominent members of the Republican party are quietly working out plans for the social side of the inauguration of the new State officers early in January. The inaugural day falls upon the 2nd, but as it is Monday, the New Year festivities will take place the same day. It has, therefore, been suggested that the two celebrations can be made to fit in very nicely, and that nothing would be more appropriate than some sort of a social event on the evening of Monday in honor of the new officials of the State. A large public ball has been mentioned as the most popular form of entertainment, and at the same time the officials can hold their New Year levee, the whole event being one that will auspiciously open the year and be at the same time an introduction of the State officials. The idea is meeting with favor among those who have been discussing the advisability of giving the ball, and it has been suggested that the Theater, with the parquet floor covered over, would be a good place for the reception.

Heroes of Gridiron Feasted.

The victorious football team of the University of Utah was given a most elaborate and enjoyable banquet at the Alta club Friday evening, the hosts being a party of public-spirited men of the city who are members of the Alumni association of the University, and who naturally take a rare pride in the achievement of the football boys during the season just ended. The table was set as a mammoth letter U, and inside the hollow space a football player stood all ready for a rush. The table was decorated in crimson and white, and all along the snowy cloth were shin guards, headgear, balls and other paraphernalia of the National game. Judge King was toastmaster, and the programme consisted of many witty speeches by hosts and guests alike.

Club Changes Its Name.

On Monday last the name of the Entre Nous club, organized in this city in 1890, was changed to the Monday Night Literary club. Until the organization of Unity club a year ago, the Entre Nous was the only literary club in the city which included both men and women in its membership. The club has met every two weeks since its organization, and now has a membership of twenty-five. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Bledsoe, 132 North State street, and Mrs. Bledsoe will give a paper on the "Social Conditions in Russia."

Coming College Dance.

A real college dance, the first in the history of Salt Lake, is that planned by the Alpha Pi fraternity of the University of Utah, to be given on the evening of December 16 at the Assembly room of the Museum building. Several hundred invitations are to be issued during the coming week, and the dance promises to be one of the elegant events of the winter.

The ladies of the congregation will be hostesses and extend an invitation herewith to all members and any friends desiring to meet Rabbi and Mrs. Freund.

Card Party at Fort Douglas.

The regular fortnightly card party for the residents of Fort Douglas was given Friday evening, and those who attended passed a delightful time. These card parties are very informal, but they bring the people of the garrison together once in a while and greatly enliven the passing days at the post, besides promoting greater social courtesy.

In Honor of Miss Read.

Mrs. Edward S. Ferry will be the hostess at an elaborate tea on Thursday afternoon in honor of Miss Read. As the hours are from 2 to 7 o'clock, and the men are to be included in the list of invitations, society will enjoy the event to the utmost, as this form of entertainment is enough of a local novelty to make it all the more appreciated.
